RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- 2012-2014 Principle Investigator, Dissertation, Teen Dating Violence, University of Oregon, Eugene, OR.
Successfully defended dissertation June, 2013. Collected observational data and assessment measures of mother-daughter dyads at four high schools in rural Oregon. Measures provided data on relationship between quality of communication, quantity of communication, and experiences of dating violence.
- 2011-2012 Principle Investigator, Identity and Career Development for Older Women Survivors of IPV, University of Oregon, Eugene, OR.
Conducted in depth, semi-structured interviews over the span of three interviews with four older women survivors of domestic violence about the intersections of abuse, survival, identity, and employment. Supervised transcription of 24 hours of interviews, coded transcripts, created data tables reflecting themes found in the data, and supervised and contributed to writing of the manuscript.
- 2010-2011 Principle Investigator, Mother-Daughter Communication Regarding Adolescent Dating Relationships and Dating Violence: A Pilot Study
Collected data to investigate the relationship between parent communication about unhealthy relationships, parent/teen’s beliefs about relationships, and violent/unhealthy risk-taking in relationships among adolescents. Ran correlations on the data to look at preliminary themes and connections between communication and beliefs regarding healthy and unhealthy dating.

- 2010-2011 Co-investigator, The Impact of Adolescent Dating Abuse on Girls' Academic Success, University of Oregon, Eugene, OR.
Conducted semi-structured interviews to examine the dating abuse experiences of girls, ages 14-18 years, and the impact of these abuse experiences on girls' academic development. Coded transcripts of the interviews as a part of the qualitative research team. Identified relevant quotes for different themes and assisted in the writing of the literature review.
- 2008 Co-investigator, Positive Mother-Daughter Communication: Negotiating Family Values and Differing Ethnic Identities, University of Oregon, Eugene, OR.
Worked with the Project Alliance data set from the Child and Family Center to investigate the value and ethnic identity scale indicators in positive mother-daughter dyadic communication within multi-ethnic families.
- 2007 Research Assistant, Tufts University, Department of Psychology, Boston, MA.
Coded silent video material regarding ethnic diversity and racism in social interactions.
- 2007 Independent Study, Stigma of Mental Illness, UC Berkeley, Berkeley, CA.
Engaged in discussion and writing regarding research and publications in individual meetings with Steve Hinshaw, Ph.D., Department Chair.
